By JOHN M. NIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy summoned the National Security Council into an extraordinary Saturday session today amid a deepening anxiety here over Soviet-backed rebel military successes in Laos.

There was speculation the administration might be close to a decision for Allied military intervention on the side of the pro-Western Laotian government, but officials declined to indicate what if any new steps the President might order.

Kennedy flew back to Washington early today following a speech in Chicago Friday night, where he said: "We are the chief defender of freedom in a time of maximum danger. We have committed ourselves to the defense of dozens of nations. This we are determined to do."

Kennedy, speaking to 5,000 Democrats at a fund-raising dinner, threw away his prepared text, dealing mainly with domestic matters. He spoke off the cuff for about 15 minutes, and then abruptly ended his speech.

"We can only defend the freedom of those who are ready to defend themselves," he said. "Our greatest ally is that people desire to be free."

It was Kennedy's second speech in two days. In New York Thursday night, he told the American Newspaper Publishers Association that the nation faced an unprecedented threat from the Communist drive to expand its power in the world.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk flies back to Washington this morning from a meeting of the Central Treaty Organization at Ankara, Turkey. Rusk had been scheduled to arrive here Saturday night, but the Ankara conference completed its work a day ahead of schedule.

Kennedy called the Security Council meeting for midmorning. He had been expected to return from Chicago later today but had cut his Chicago visit by 2 days in order to get back to Washington quickly and give his personal attention to the latest reports on the Laotian crisis.

The Security Council has also discussed the Cuban situation, although officials have indicated it might be some weeks before new anti-Castro measures were put into effect earlier this week. In the rebel invasion.

State Department authorities were reported still hopeful the Communist side in the Laotian civil war could be prevailed upon to carry out the Soviet-British cease-fire agreement before the military situation deteriorated further.

Cubans in Exile Hold Demonstration

By BEN MEYER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cuban exiles by the hundreds concentrated in Washington today for a day of peaceful demonstrations appealing for U.S. help in freeing their homeland from the Fidel Castro regime.

A motor caravan of 50 automobiles and two chartered buses came from Miami, and other groups came to join them today from New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore. Most planned to return later today.

Normally, Cubans are happy-go-lucky, laughing people. Today they were restrained. They seemed worried and saddened by events in their country.

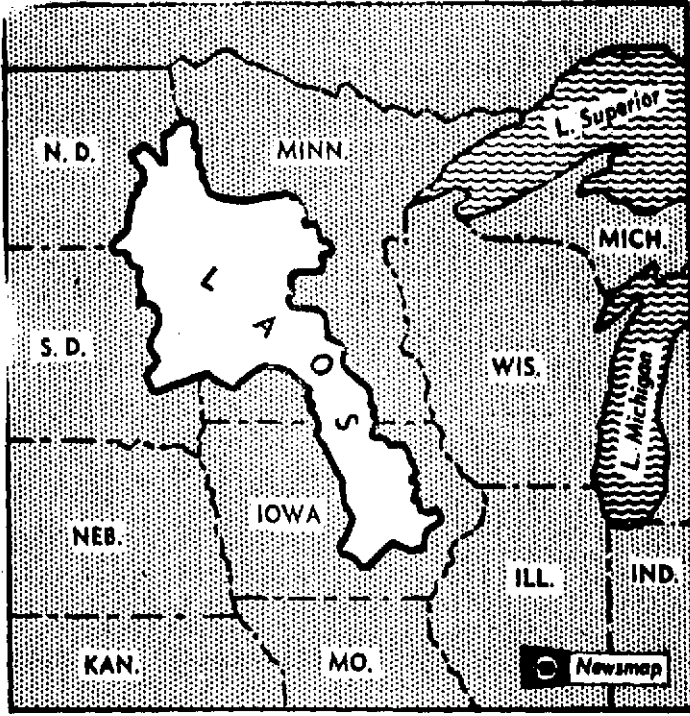

The Cubans deposited a wreath in Arlington National Cemetery. It was placed at the monument to victims of the battleship Maine, sunk in Havana Harbor just before the United States entered the war against Spain to give Cuba its independence.

Afterward, there was a visit to Lincoln's Memorial, a prayer service, and a token visit by some of the exiles to the Organization of American States, an agency of hemisphere governments.

The demonstrators carried flags of Cuba and the United States, and some held aloft placards with inscriptions such as: "Cuba yes, Russia no," "Don't let Cuba be another Hungary," and "Help, please."

Weather

Clear to partly cloudy today and tonight. No important temperature changes.

COMPARISON—By superimposing Laos on several Midwest states (Newsmap), the size of the crisis-ridden Asiatic kingdom is illustrated. Laos has an area of 89,000 square miles, compared with Minnesota's 84,088.

Editors Urged to Set Self Censorship

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER

NEW YORK (AP) — President Kennedy urges that American newspaper publishers consider some form of self-censorship in light of cold war threats to national security.

He has given no particulars on what he has in mind. But he says his administration would cooperate wholeheartedly if the press would "consider and recommend the voluntary assumption of specific new steps or machinery."

The President emphasized that he was opposed to government censorship or new secret classifications, which could be abused. He suggested that the newspapers weigh not only whether a story is news but also whether publication is in the interest of national security.

A cross-section of publishers adopted a restrained attitude toward Kennedy's appeal "to heed the duty of self-restraint" in their news columns. Those interviewed supported the general idea, but some insisted on specific guidelines.

Kennedy made his proposal Thursday night in an address before 1,700 publishers, editors and other newspaper executives and their wives at the annual dinner of the Bureau of Advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers Association.

The dinner address was part of a two-day speech and conference trip.

Kennedy's first scheduled meeting with former President Herbert Hoover and General of the Army Douglas MacArthur. He arranged to drive from his suite in the Carlyle Hotel to the Waldorf-Astoria, where Hoover and MacArthur have apartments.

Then he invited Adlai E. Stevenson, ambassador to the United Nations, and U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld to lunch in his own quarters.

His purpose was to acquaint all four with White House views—and seek their thoughts—on Cuba, Laos and other trouble spots.

Hoover is the fifth leading Republican to confer with Kennedy on world problems in recent days. The others were former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona.

Kennedy said in his proposal for consideration of self-censorship:

"If the press is awaiting a declaration of war before it imposes the self-discipline of combat conditions then I can only say that no war ever posed a greater threat to our security."

"If you are awaiting a finding of 'clear and present danger,' then I can only say that the danger has never been more clear and its presence has never been more imminent."

Kennedy said that to meet "this national peril" there are two requirements: far greater public information as well as far greater official secrecy.

He was applauded when he said no administration official should exploit his remarks to censor news, cover up mistakes or "withhold from the press and the public the facts they deserve to know."

He again was applauded—for the only other time in his speech—when he said no president should fear public scrutiny of his program and asked the help of publishers "in the tremendous task of informing and alerting the American people."

Bookstores Key to New U.S. Trends

By DICK WEST
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A good way to keep abreast of literary and social trends in America is to spend a rainy afternoon browsing around in the U.S. government bookstore.

It is also, I might add, a good way to keep from getting wet. I found this out recently when a sudden shower caught me near the bookstore, sans raincoat. I had a choice of taking refuge there or in the post office across the street.

Since reading material in a post office usually is limited to "wanted" posters for federal felons, I chose the bookstore. I was glad that I did.

When I emerged a half-hour or so later, I was both mentally stimulated and as dry as a government pamphlet on "screw thread standards."

The screw thread pamphlet, incidentally, is on the bookstore's best seller list. That is what I meant when I referred to literary trends.

One of the largest Possibly nobody would be astonished to learn that the government bookstore is one of the largest in the world. We have come to expect things like that from the government.

What makes it astonishing is the fact that it puts money into the Treasury, thus vicing the versa of most federal functions. Excess receipts currently total more than $4 million a year.

The bookstore has in stock about 30,000 different government publications embracing, to quote one document, I ran across, "nearly every field of human living."

Moreover, the publications are not restricted to human living. Prominently displayed on the shelves is a booklet on the control of "horse bolts."

I counted, while waiting for the rain to stop, 48 documents on child care, 43 documents on food, and 32 documents on Communism. That is what I meant when I referred to the bookstore as a weather-vane of social trends.

Best-Seller List The all-time best-seller (11,593,005 copies) is a booklet entitled "Infant Care," followed by one entitled "Prenatal Care," followed by one entitled "Your Child From One to Six."

"Your Child From Six to Twelve" is fifth on the list, sandwiched between "Your Federal Income Tax" and "Your Social Security."

This ranking provides a pretty good indication of the things that we Americans worry about and the order in which we worry about them.

But coming up fast are such atomic age publications as "Prospecting for Uranium" and "Living With Radiation."

I was rather surprised to find that "Septic Tank Care" is No. 9 on the list, ahead of such appealing volumes as "Technique of House Nailing" and "Elevator Systems of the Eiffel Tower."

U.S. Astronaut Off Into Space Next Week

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The U. S. space program will thrust closer to that of the Soviet Union one morning next week when the first American astronaut is rocketed on a high arc ride into near space.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration, announcing plans for a limited man-in-space shot, made official today what has been an open secret here for days.

The tall, white rocket and the space capsule atop it already are in place on the launch pad.

NASA said the launch—Climaxing about 2½ years of Project Mercury preparation—will come about an hour after daybreak "in the next week or so."

From other sources, it was learned the shot is set for next Tuesday morning, if all goes well. That would be 20 days after Soviet air force Maj. Yuri Gagarin became the first known man to orbit the earth. The Soviet Union claimed he did so in a five-ton space craft.

Next week's U. S. manned space ship which will not be as ambitious. In the lingo of space agency people here, an orbital voyage by an American is "still down the road." It may come later this year.

On this coming trip, an astronaut whose identity is still a secret, will be strapped into a 5,000-pound capsule and sent aloft by a relatively low powered Redstone ballistic missile. The planned course would carry chamber to a peak altitude of about 115 miles. It would land at a point southeast of here where Navy and Air Force ships and planes will be poised to recover it and its passenger from the water.

During a 15-minute flight at up to about 4,500 miles an hour, the astronaut will experience about five minutes of weightlessness, an eerie sensation, and terrific forces up to 11 times that of gravity.

One of three men, all married and fathers of children, will get the historic honor of making the first U. S. space tour. They are Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr., 39, of New Concord, Ohio; Air Force Capt. Virgil I. Grissom, 35, of Mitchell, Ind., and Navy Cmdr. Alan B. Shepard, 37, of East Derry, N. H.

These were "finalists" out of a group of seven astronauts chosen two years ago for intensive training looking toward space flight. The seven, volunteers every one, had been drawn from an original list of 110.

History Has Answer to Space Race

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Next week an American astronaut risks his neck and the nation's prestige in a 15-minute partial hop into space.

It's only a toe step compared with Yuri Gagarin's momentous vault completely around the earth in 108 minutes. The American is to shoot 115 miles high, and nearly 300 miles out over the Atlantic. So why risk it?

History supplies one answer: Columbus pioneered America. But Spain did not win the new continent.

Like Columbus, Gagarin opened the new frontier of space, with treasures of knowledge or practical benefits possibly to be won there. There's a long future ahead for man in space.

But the Soviet Union has not yet offered other nations her rockets — or even the detailed knowledge — so they can duplicate her feat.

Now the Soviet Union has a fully-tested rocket which can orbit a five-ton capsule. It is roomy, it is equipped with two escape hatches for safety, the Soviets report. And it could carry enough oxygen and food to keep Gagarin alive for 10 days, if need be.

The hard and goading fact is the United States is not yet sure that her No. 1 operational warhead rocket—the Atlas—can reliably chance sending a man into orbit. Or that he and his one-ton capsule can be safely landed from orbit.

A test of an Atlas boosting an unmanned capsule failed on April 25.

Anti-Aircraft Guns to Be Sold

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — In the market for an anti-aircraft gun? Arkansas' Camp Robinson has 18 of them for sale.

The self-propelled 40-millimeter guns cost $94,743 each, but they probably won't bring but a fraction of that in the sale next Tuesday in Memphis at the Consolidated Surplus Sales Office.

The weapons became surplus in an Arkansas National Guard reorganization which cut out three anti-aircraft battalions.

Buyers won't be able to put the guns to their intended use, however. A rule of the sale is that they must be "demilitarized" before they can be taken away.

Shudder at Running Statewide

By GORDON BROWN
Associated Press Special Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most of the Arkansas House members shudder a little at the possibility they might have to run in a statewide at-large race for reelection in 1962.

Such a race is possible if a move to force a referendum on the re-districting law at the 1962 election is successful.

As viewed by most of the members, statewide elimination races have many pitfalls, including the possibility that most of the delegation could be defeated.

As one of the Arkansians observed, anyone can enter such a contest race and, with 20 or 30 candidates, the unexpected can happen.

It's a virtual certainty, of course, that in such a race all six of the representatives — would be in the race for the four posts.

Presumably, those with the most to gain in such a setup would be Rep. Dale Alford and the prospective new member in the 6th, and Mrs. Catherine Norrell, the new representative from the 6th District.

Without the state at-large race Alford, if he wanted to try for reelection, would have to run against Rep. Wilbur Mills and Mrs. Norrell, against Rep. Oren Harris.

Conversely, the other four members — Harris, Mills, Rep. E.P. Gathings and Rep. James W. Trimble — have the most to lose.

Several of the latter quartet have said privately they doubt that it ever will come to a statewide election to select the state's four representatives in 1962.

They cite these possibilities:

That the referendum proposal can likely be successfully challenged, possibly in the courts; that the Legislature in special session could set a vote on the referendum proposal in advance of November, 1962; and that the Legislature could tie an emergency label onto the redistricting act so that it would remain effective unless rejected in a statewide referendum.

Fellowships provide tuition and fees, $2,250 for basic maintenance and $600 for each dependent.

A recent hearing before a House Agriculture subcommittee brought out that Arkansas received $38,095, in federal milk funds for the year ended last June 30 and receiving $398,988 for the year ending next June 30.

These funds, from the Commodity Credit Corporation, enable schools to purchase milk for school children.

This program began as an effort to find a use for surplus milk — which is why it was made a part of the CCC—but now efforts are being made to set it up as a program which would receive regularly appropriated funds from Congress.

When Fred Ward, aide to Rep. E.C. Gathings, D-Ark., checked the House Appropriations committee recently to see if the committee had approved the $300,000 that Gathings wanted for blackbird control, he was told:

"We took good care of your boss — we didn't cut the budget recommendation."

Which meant that the blackbird fund stood at $180,000 instead of $480,000 as asked by Gathings.

"Glad they weren't mad as us," commented Ward.

May 5, Rubinoff and World Famous $100,000 Violin to Give a Concert in Hope

By MARY ANITA LASETER
Star Feature Writer

Some of America's largest cities have turned out in record-breaking numbers to welcome Dave Rubinoff, world-famous radio and concert artist, and his famous $100,000 Stradivarius violin. We, in Hope, are certainly fortunate to have the same opportunity next Friday night, May 5.

The artist is a graduate of the Royal Conservatory in Warsaw, Poland, so he has a personal interest in music composed by Chopin such as the famed Polonaise with its soul-stirring, patriotic theme. Mr. Rubinoff feels that with freedom today confronted with tyranny and treachery, the opus is appropriate as a current theme of the times.

He will perform "Chopin's Polonaise (Opus 53)" and another familiar selection that is dear to his heart, the "Warsaw Concerto." Usually heard as a piano solo with orchestral accompaniment, this will be the premier performance of the magnificent work as a violin solo.

Not only does the Rubinoff program include such selections as the artist's own compositions, "Dance of the Peasant" and "Fiddlin' the Fiddle," and "Soviet" by Drla, one of the most popular of violin solos, but also deeply loved "Clair de Lune," "Hora Staccato," "Only You," and "Jalousie."

Rubinoff has been called "The People's Choice" and the reason for this tribute to him from a musical standpoint can be heard with his presentation of "The Ballad of Davy Crockett" in 15 characteristic styles, including Crazy Otto style, a circus gallop, and boogie woogie. He will also do some square dance fiddlin' and will play Victor Young's "Around the World in 80 Days."

John Atkins is the young associate artist and accompanist of Rubinoff and his violin. At the beginning of each half of the program he has a piano solo. First is Chopin's "Revolutionary War Etude" and, later, "Widmung" (Dedication) by Schumann.

A native of Mississippi, John Atkins was a child prodigy, displaying his gifts of music at the early age of five. He appeared with the New Orleans Symphony at the age of 15, and has appeared in recitals and as soloist in Chicago, Minneapolis, and New York, receiving the praise of the most severe critics.

When Rubinoff first heard Atkins, he exclaimed: "Here is a fledgling in years, just 21; but in talent and musicianship, a Rachmaninoff and Paderewski—all rolled into one, with a splash of our own immortal Gershwin for good measure."

The combination of these two divine artists—what a divine treat!

The Hope Rotary Club is sponsoring this concert in Hope. The date is Friday, May 5. The concert begins at 8:00 p.m. in the Hope High School auditorium and admission is $1.50 per ticket. You may purchase tickets from members of local garden clubs, the Friday Music Club, Junior Auxiliary, John Cain chapter of the D.A.R., 1st National Bank, Citizens National Bank, Cox's Drug Store, Ward & Son Drug Store, Foster's Family Shoe Store, and the Ladies Specialty Shop, as well as from any Hope Rotarian.

Many businessmen are confused about price-fixing bans, because it is customary to try to stop price wars by agreeing on an equitable price that will let all concerned function at a profit instead of a loss.

Businessmen regularly gather in conventions, national or regional, to discuss their problems — such as rising costs that affect prices. Many of them ask tariff protection against imports of foreign goods that could undercut domestic price levels.

Others note that many states have so-called fair trade laws which permit a manufacturer to set the retail price of his product under certain circumstances and forbid maverick retailers from selling below this fixed price.

The comparison shopper is a fixture in the retail world. This type of scout finds out what other merchants are charging for an item so that his employer may adjust prices accordingly. This is free competition and legal.

Consumers are used to many legal forms of price fixing—such as rent controls in some states. Consumers accept barbers in a community all charging the same price for haircuts. And the public expects the price of a man's labor to be fixed by bargaining between his union and his employer, often with a public official or two sitting in.

Records in Office Not Required

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Atty. Gen. Frank Holt ruled today that a city recorder is not required to keep municipal records in his office.

The question was raised by John Tull, who had asked if a recorder could keep records in his home or anywhere except in the office.

Tull also was told that a recorder can pay city bills only after the city council authorizes him to do so.

No Question Price Fixing Widespread

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Price fixing is a dirty term to consumers—particularly when they suspect the price is fixed higher than it would have been under free competition.

But price fixing today is also a confusing term because it is so widespread. And sometimes it's illegal but sometimes it's okay and often it's done by the government itself.

Price fixing is much in the news today because in Washington a Senate subcommittee is hearing testimony on an antitrust conspiracy for which a federal judge fined 29 makers of electrical equipment nearly $2 million and sent seven of their officials to jail for a month. The offense was illegal price fixing and bid rigging.

But some of the defendants pleaded that if the companies in that crowded industry hadn't divided the market amongst themselves the largest ones could have driven the small ones to the wall. The antitrust laws also frown on any domination of an industry by one or a few companies to the detriment of competition.

Many businessmen are confused about price-fixing bans, because it is customary to try to stop price wars by agreeing on an equitable price that will let all concerned function at a profit instead of a loss.

Strikes Invite New Laws to Outlaw Unions

By G. MILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., said today costly strikes and work slowdowns at missile bases invite a tough new law to outlaw unions responsible for such things.

McClellan said his Senate Investigations subcommittee in hearings this week produced "evidence beyond any reasonable doubt" that organized labor at the Cape Canaveral missile base abused the strike weapon to enrich its members at taxpayers' expense.

The subcommittee has heard a parade of witnesses denounce the 109 strikes and uncounted work slowdowns reported at Canaveral in the last 4½ years, charging these have inflated costs by millions of dollars and slowed the program.

McClellan said it was clear that most of the strikes were called on flimsy grounds with "the premeditated purpose" of throwing missile projects behind schedule so workers could draw overtime pay in a rush to catch up.

The subcommittee has produced evidence that many plumbers and electricians drew wages up to $764 a week, including overtime computed at four times the regular wage rate.

Robert Palmer, top labor leader at the base, has acknowledged strikes "must have" slowed the missile program. He denied any strike was designed to force overtime wage payments, and swore he never authorized a walkout.

Palmer is business manager of Local 756 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers. Witnesses have said other unions follow his lead on strike and work slowdown matters.

Joseph W. Morgan, Teamsters Union general organizer in Florida, invoked the Fifth Amendment constitutional provision against possible self-incrimination when asked Friday about his own role in a strike which virtually paralyzed the base for four weeks in 1957, near the peak of the rush to gear up missile programs.

McClellan told newsmen he may draft legislation to protect missile bases and other defense installations from crippling strikes.

Thinks Red Jets Should Be Attacked

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Sen. Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky, the Republican national chairman, says "Communist jet planes in Cuba should have been met with jet planes."

The party leader, speaking Thursday night at a GOP dinner honoring the Nuyahota County Republican Chairman A. L. DeMaio, heaped criticism on the Kennedy administration's handling of the ill-fated Cuban invasion. But he promised full Republican cooperation in any steps that need to be taken in the national interest.

He spoke of the "sense of national humiliation at the way in which the Cuban rebels were exposed to military disaster while we stood by and watched their doomed expedition crushed by Soviet planes, tanks and artillery."

"Not only the American people but our friends throughout the free world share distaste for the self-righteousness of our U.N. representative in disclaiming any responsibility for the expedition and for the lack of candor and straightforwardness on the part of our government," Morton said.

"There is a general feeling which I share, that the time has come for our government to sinless in world affairs and not take refuge in shrill Byzantine ambiguities in a matter which involve our very safety as a nation as individuals."

"The real tragedy in the Cuban situation is that it failed. When the United States gets in any way involved in such an undertaking as we did in Guatemala, as we did in Cuba, the effort must succeed. Such a situation requires bold actions equal to bold words."

Schools, AEA Concerned Over SS Plan

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Some school districts are expressing concern because revisions in the state Teachers Retirement System force them to pay employer costs of Social Security benefits for teachers, Gov. Orval E. Faubus said today.

The matter came up when a newsman questioned the governor about a resolution of the Hazen School Board criticizing the Arkansas Education Association.

The governor sidetracked discussion of the Hazen situation by volunteering the information about Social Security protests.

Faubus was a sponsor of a Teacher Retirement plan now on the statute books. He pushed it to legislative passage despite vigorous opposition from the AEA, which got its own plan passed.

Faubus vetoed the AEA bill and signed his bill. Both measures provided for addition of Social Security benefits with the teacher paying 3 per cent of salary and the school district 3 per cent for the new benefit.

The Social Security provision will be effective, however, only if it is approved by a majority of teachers at a referendum, tentatively set for next September.

Faubus said today his retirement plan was not entirely of his own making. It was an attempt, he said, to compromise with the AEA.

"I was trying to go along with their plan except on the matter of how much money the state would contribute to the retirement system," Faubus said.

"If I'd drawn up a plan entirely on my own, it would have been different," he did not elaborate.

The AEA wanted the state to contribute 9.72 per cent of teachers' salaries (about $6 million) to the retirement system each year. The Faubus plan sets the state contribution at $3.7 million for 1961-62 and $3.9 million for 1962-63.

"We passed a law to make sure that the local school districts have to dig up the Social Security money rather than take it from state funds allocated to teachers' salaries," Faubus said. "It looks like this could get to be quite a problem."

Husband Does Wife's Work

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: I've been married three years and have a son 21 months old. My wife thinks she's one of the better wives. Why, I'll never know. My breakfast and lunch is thrown at me. Supper is either raw or burnt. Our home looks as if a cyclone struck it. I do the washing and ironing.

Our son is dirty half the time; my wife dirty all the time; yet wants me to be proud of her. She jolls around with a book in one hand, a cup of tea or a cigarette in the other. When I get after her she tells me she's not a slave. I'd leave her but hate to part with my son. —Mr. C.

Dear Mr. C.: I'm old fashioned enough to believe that it's a man's job to earn the money to support his family and a woman's to run the home, especially where there are children. Lay down the law.

Dear Helen: Mine is the old story of never being accepted by my mother-in-law. In all my 27 years of marriage. Last week my father-in-law passed away. At the funeral home my husband and his mother held hands. I was left to sit by myself. I told him he might show me a little consideration. He accused me of being insanely jealous. This was the last straw. My children are grown. What to do now? —V. R.

Dear V. R.: A funeral was no place for telling your husband off, especially when his mother was the principal mourner. To make an issue of his sympathy harms you, not her. Go your way and let her go hers.

Dear Helen: I have worked the greater part of the 30 years I am married. In the beginning I turned my entire check over to my husband. After our two children started school I went back to work and decided to handle my own money.

I refurbished our house, paid for the children's clothes, gave them school lunch money and allowances, their eyeglasses, bought my own clothes, paid my dental bills, optical bills, bought my husband some clothes and even managed to put a little into a joint saving account.

My husband angrily tells everyone I never help him out with the money I make. I love him, keep a tidy home, the laundry in perfect order and the children and myself neat at all times. Am I in the wrong? —Worried

Dear Worried: You have a right to administer money you earn. Does your husband contribute as much as you do toward the family expenses? If not, he should. But you're at fault to, for letting the situation get out of hand.

Send your problems to Helen Worden Erskine. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and address her care of this newspaper. Helpful leaflets available.

Gentlemen:

We have audited the books of account and records of
CITY OF HOPE, ARKANSAS

for the year ended December 31, 1960 and submit our report thereon as indexed on the preceding page. Our examination consisted of a verification of the cash balances and a detailed analysis of the receipts and disbursements for the period under review.

Comments

The fund balances at December 31, 1960 are compared to those at December 31, 1959 as follows:

	December 31, 1960	December 31, 1959
General Fund	23,887.43	22,853.22
Health Fund	1,731.34	6,784.73
Airport Fund	10,176.60	13,007.25
	35,795.37	42,645.20

Contingent Liabilities — The City is contingently liable to the First National Bank, Hope, Arkansas, on various Strict Improvement District notes in the amount of $2,425.60. During 1960 only $14.82 was collected from these districts.

The City has a street sweeper which was acquired October 19, 1959 on a lease-purchase plan. Monthly payments are $266.77. At the end of 36 months the City may acquire the sweeper with a payment of $1.00.

We appreciate the courteous cooperation extended us during the course of the audit.

In our opinion the attached statements and schedules present fairly the cash receipts and disbursements of the City of Hope, Arkansas for the year ended December 31, 1960.

Yours very truly,

R. A. LILE AND COMPANY

Little Rock, Arkansas, January 14, 1961.

IF A

THIS

IF A MAN PRAYS RIGHT

CAN HE LIVE WRONG?

Here is my watch. If it is to be of value to me, it has to be a watch I can count on. When I look at its face, I must know beyond doubt, that it can be trusted. If I have to be forever checking it, it is of little use to me, and certainly it is not fulfilling the purpose for which it was created. Life too, is that way!

If a man is to be of value, he must be the kind of person that can be counted on. His face must radiate dependability. If those who live about you have to be forever checking on you... you are not fulfilling the purpose for which God created you. Now, Paul said, "those things, which ye have both learned, and received, and heard, and seen in me, do; and the God of peace shall be with you."

Help us to attend church worship every week and to draw near to Thee. May we gather in thoughts that stray and control feelings that may be troublesome. For sin give repentance, for sorrow give trust, for strife of passion and care grant rest. Through this timepiece illustration, may we be led to bring our lives to Thee, that we may test and measure them by thine unerring law.

You In The Church
The Church In You
— form a combination for good. Every man, woman and child needs the influence of the church. So, come let us go into the house of the Lord. Let us support her program of service to humanity, be a faithful worker, a daily bible reader and attend services regularly.
